- You are studying in Luxembourg (secondary school, BTS, or university).

MUST-KNOW

- You cannot work more than 15 hours per week on average over a month. For example, you could work 17 hours one week and 13 hours the next.

- You pay social security contributions on your income, which cover pension, health, care, and accident insurance.
- Just like a regular CDD, you'll have paid leave and sick days.

MINI-JOBS

There are many other ways to earn some extra pocket money in Luxembourg. On the following pages, you will find some common mini-jobs and other opportunities to explore!

The most common mini-jobs include babysitting and private tutoring, but there are many other lesser-known opportunities to earn extra cash. Each job may have different requirements, such as age restrictions, so it's important to check the relevant websites for specific details.

BABYSITTING

A simple approach is to ask your family and friends if they or anyone they know need a babysitter. Some municipalities also offer training programmes and maintain a database where you can register as a babysitter.

The national platform babysitting.lu provides a training for aspiring babysitters. With one day of training, you receive your official certificate and all the basics to take care of children in a safe and competent way. Then, sign up on babysitting.lu, create your profile, and land your first babysitting experiences. A great opportunity to take on responsibility and earn your own money!

PRIVATE TUTORING

The easiest way is to ask your family and friends if they, or anyone they know, are looking for a private tutor. Additionally, there are websites that can connect you with people seeking tutoring services. Below is an example, but we encourage you to also do your own research.

CONDITIONS

The minimum age to become an Intellego tutor is 18 years.

PET SITTING & DOG WALKING

Do you have experience in taking care of pets? Pet owners occasionally need to leave their house or go on vacation. And that's where you can step in to help! To ensure that their pets are well taken care of, pet owners can hire somebody to look after their furry companions. Start by asking family and friends if they, or anyone they know, need a pet sitter or dog walker.

There are several companies and websites that can assist you in finding opportunities for petsitting. We encourage you to research these companies on your own and review their specific requirements and conditions.

LEISURE ACTIVITY YOUTH LEADER

If you're great with kids and excited about the idea of helping out at summer camps or similar activities, there are plenty of opportunities out there! Every year, lots of kids head off to camps where they're supervised by young people like you. You could be one of them! When you join a camp, you'll earn some pocket money. Keep in mind that it's not a salary but rather a fun opportunity to discover new job opportunities.

Excited to get started? All you need is to do the Brevet Animateur, which is available in different levels. The Brevet A will enable you to work in daytime activities organised by youth structures or holiday activities organised by local municipalities. If you are 16 or over, you can also start with the Brevet B, which gives you the opportunity to work during overnight camps. These certifications are offered by several organisations in Luxembourg. On the website animateur.lu, you will find all the accredited organisations as well as the schedule of upcoming sessions you can register for.

It's a great way to earn extra money while maintaining flexibility with your schedule.

There are many street marketing and host/hostess companies that operate in Luxembourg that can put you in touch with events or companies in need of flexible workers. We encourage you to research these companies on your own and review their specific requirements and conditions.

BACKGROUND ACTOR

Are you passionate about the world of movies and productions? Then this activity is for you! Movies and TV productions frequently seek background actors to populate their scenes!

USE YOUR NETWORK

Start by talking to family and friends. They may know of job openings or they may have contacts that could offer you a student job. Your family and friends can ask around to find something that fits your profile. Many young people find a job this way in Luxembourg.

BE PROACTIVE

Bring your CV with you when visiting local shops, restaurants, or bars. Often, opportunities arise simply by showing one's interest in person.

- Send out spontaneous applications by email (CV and cover letter) to the companies of your choice!
- Restaurants and bars may invite you for a test day to assess your suitability for the job.
- Some shops display job adverts in their windows. Next time you're at the mall or in the shopping district, take a moment to check them out.

Make sure to apply for several positions to increase your chance of landing a job. You can always turn down or accept offers! Keep exploring different avenues, and don't hesitate to seize any opportunities that come your way. Remember that persistence and enthusiasm are key when searching for a student job.

Make sure you tailor your application for each job you apply to. Highlight any skills and experiences that are relevant to what they are looking for in their job descriptions. Spend some time getting to know the companies or places you're applying to. Showing how your skills match what they need will help you stand out!

If possible, consider how your student job can align with your interests and studies. Explore opportunities that match your education and goals. It's also a great way to gain experience in a field that you're interested in and build your CV!
